

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A silicon oxide film having a ununiform thickness is deposited inside each of trenches defined in a silicon substrate by etching within a device isolation region, in such a manner that only corner portions of trench bottoms are exposed. The silicon substrate is selectively etched from the exposed trench corner portions of the silicon substrate lying inside the trenches to thereby increase the volume of each trench.